1 Under Fundamental Rule 68, the leave out of India expired on 27th May 1939, the day before the arrival of the ship at Cochin, and under Supplementary Rule 295 joining time is calculated from the 28th May 1939. A minimum joining time of 10 days is allowed which expired on 6th June 1939.

P.L.

7 The Commissioner requests that he may be granted an extension of joining time under Supplementary Rule 302 for six days from the 7th to 12th June 1939. He says that one of the reasons for his returning to India a few days earlier earlier was that he "wanted to have a few days with Mr. Milton before actually taking over, to get to know something about the work". It is for consideration whether for this reason, he may be granted an extension of joining time under Supplementary Rule 302(b). If so, the extension may be granted by the Resident as "Head of a Department" under Item 70, Appendix 13, of Fundamental and Supplementary Rules. If not, the entire period from the 28th May 1939 to 12th June/1939 inclusive will have to be treated as leave on half average pay in India.

SIR,

I have the hounor to state that on my return from leave out of India I landed at Cochin on 28-5-1939 and took charge of the office of Commissioner of Police on 12-6-1939 A.M. availing myself of joining time for 16 days.

I reported to the Inspector General of Police, Madras, well in advance, that I was returning early, because it was very much more convenient to arrive at Cochin having my family with me, and boats only call there once a month; and also because I wanted to have a few days with Mr.Milton before actually taking over, to get to know something about the work.

I request that I may kindly be granted extension of joining time under S.R. 302 from 7th to 12th June 1939
